Part 4: Reading – Summer plans

Read Priya's email and choose the correct answer.

Hi Leo,

Thanks for your email! I have some big news. My family and I are going to spend the summer in Portugal. We aren't going to stay in a hotel. We're going to rent a small house near the beach. We're going to travel there by car, and my dad is going to drive all the way, so the journey is going to be very long!

I'm going to take lots of photos, and my sister is going to learn to surf. I'm not going to try surfing because I'm afraid of big waves. I'm going to read on the beach and swim in the sea.

What about you? Are you going to visit your cousins in July? Write soon!

Priya

27. Where is Priya's family going to stay?

A in a hotel

B with their cousins

C in a hotel near the beach

Explanations

- B – With 'I' we use 'am going to' + base verb.
- C – 'My brother' is he, so we use 'is going to' + base verb.
- D – The negative with 'we' is 'aren't going to'. We don't use 'don't' with 'be going to'.
- A – In questions we put 'is' before a singular subject. We don't use 'does'.
- B – With 'you' the question form is 'What are you going to...?'
- C – With 'they' the negative is 'aren't going to'.
- D – The full form is subject + be + going to + base verb, with no -s on the verb.
- A – The question form is be + subject + going to + base verb.
- C – Short answers repeat 'be', and we can't use the contraction 'it's' at the end of a short answer.
- B – The negative short answer for 'Are they...?' is 'No, they aren't.'
- D – 'Tom and Mia' is plural, so we use 'are'.
- B – Question word order is question word + be + subject + going to + verb.
- C – We use 'is going to' for a prediction when we can see the evidence now.
- A – We use 'be going to' for a plan or decision we have already made.
- C – 'Going to' + base verb (call) talks about the future. 'Going to' + place describes movement.
- B – We can see what is happening, so we use 'is going to' to make a prediction.
- D – The speaker can see the danger now, so 'you're going to' + base verb is correct.
- C – The question asks about a plan, so the answer uses 'I'm going to' + base verb.
- A – The speaker already has a plan, so we use 'I'm going to' + base verb.
- D – 'Be going to' shows a plan or intention for the future.
- B – 'Be going to' talks about the future, so we need a future time expression like 'next summer'.
- B – With 'I' the negative is 'I'm not going to' + base verb.
- C – After 'going to' we use the base verb: 'buy', not 'buying'.
- B – 'My friends' is plural, so it should be 'are going to'.
- A – We make questions with 'be': 'Are you going to visit...?'
- C – The verb 'be' is missing: it should be 'Sara isn't going to come'.
- D – Priya writes: 'We're going to rent a small house near the beach.'
- B – Priya writes: 'my sister is going to learn to surf.'
- C – Priya writes: 'I'm not going to try surfing because I'm afraid of big waves.'
- D – Priya says they are going by car and her dad is going to drive all the way, so the journey is going to be very long.

Notes for teachers: Use this test after introducing 'be going to' for plans and evidence-based predictions, or as a review before moving on to 'will'. It targets typical A2 errors: leaving out 'be', using 'do/does' in questions and negatives, adding -ing or -s after 'to', and confusing 'going to + verb' with 'going to + place'. As a follow-up, ask learners to write five sentences about their plans for next weekend and two predictions based on what they can see around them.
