Exercise 4: Find the mistake

24. I will phone you tomorrow.
Don't use 'to' after will.
25. Don't worry, I'll help you.
Use the base verb after will, not -ing.
26. She will be late again.
Will never takes -s.
27. I won't tell your parents.
The negative is won't / will not, not don't will.
28. Will you open the window, please?
Don't use 'to' after will in questions.
29. I think it will snow tonight.
Use the base verb after will, without -s.
30. Will you come to my party?
Make questions with Will + subject, not do.
31. I promise I won't be late.
'Not' goes after will: will not / won't.

Exercise 5: Put the words in order

32. I will call you tomorrow.

Subject + will + verb + object + time.

33. I think it will rain tonight.

I think + subject + will + verb for predictions.

34. I promise I won't tell anyone.

I promise + subject + won't + verb.

35. Will you help me?

Question: Will + subject + verb.

36. I'll carry your bag.

An offer: I'll + verb + object.

37. She will probably be late.

Probably goes after will in positive sentences.

38. Who will win the match?

Wh- question: Who + will + verb.

Notes for teachers: Start by eliciting three quick examples on the board: a prediction (I think it will rain), an offer (I'll carry that) and a promise (I won't forget). Common mistakes include adding 'to' after will (will to go), adding -s or -ing (will goes, will going) and making negatives with 'don't'. As a follow-up, ask pairs to write a short dialogue in which one person has a problem and the other makes offers and promises.
